TY SCHOOLS BEGIN NEW TERM SEPT. 10

Facilities for Education of Grenada Children Unexcelled—New Primary Building Just Completed Houses First and Second Grades—Grammar and High School Buildings Complete Marvellous Educational Plant.

With an enrollment of 875 in all departments the Grenada City Schools opened Monday, Sept. 10, at what promises to be the greatest session in its history. At no time in any session has the enrollment ever reached this figure. In last week the task of classifying pupils was in progress and when the opening school came Monday everything was in readiness for the first day's work of the 1928-29 session.

The pupils of the first and second grades found a handsome new building ready for their sole occupancy. It was completed just a few weeks ago and is equipped with every convenience known to a modern schoolroom. There are four classrooms in the primary building, two for each grade. In addition there is an emergency room, a room equipped with things deemed expedient in cases of illness or other emergency. Drinking fountains, two toilets and an excellent steam-heating plant complete the building, giving the little folks of Grenada a thoroughly modern and up-to-date school in which they may begin their school careers. The separate and distinct building and the fact that their playgrounds are apart from those of the older school pupils receiving the final years of educational training, giving them to enter college to complete their preparation for the life of a most commodious auditorium provides ample room for chapel exercises and for the various plays and functions incident to school life, splendidly equipped and well-furnished classrooms and an immense study hall give every opportunity for improving the mind and in the basement are found the home science department and the showers and dressing rooms for the school girls.

The high school building, built just a few years ago, is the last word in school structure. Here the school pupils receive the final years of educational training, giving them to enter college to complete their preparation for the life of a most commodious auditorium provides ample room for chapel exercises and for the various plays and functions incident to school life, splendidly equipped and well-furnished classrooms and an immense study hall give every opportunity for improving the mind and in the basement are found the home science department and the showers and dressing rooms for the school girls.

Grenada should feel proud of its school system which ranks as high as that of other towns much greater in population. It should interest itself to a greater extent in school activities and those citizens and patrons of the school who don't know just what advantages Grenada school children have should without fail visit the school and see for themselves just what a revelation awaits them. Supt. John Rundle, who is considered to be one of the best school men in the south, has assisting him a strong faculty as can be found anywhere. The teachers were selected only after the most careful and rigid investigation as to their ability and training. Many of them are strangers in Grenada but the Sentinel feels sure that Grenada's well-known hospitality soon will make them feel at home.

Thieves, who entered every office on the second floor of the Grenada Bank building Sunday night made away with $75 in cash taken from the desk of Dr. F. A. Stacy, dentist. Besides Dr. Stacy's office, the offices of S. M. Cain & Co., insurance agents, C. H. Calhoun, broker, Leake & Goodlett, lumber, and W. E. Penn, insurance, were all entered, doors in each of the offices being opened after part of the frames had been removed. Nothing was missed from any of them except the loss sustained by Dr. Stacy. In each of them, however, the visitors had left evidence of their call and desk drawers had been rifled and papers were scattered everywhere. In Leake & Goodlett's, several holes had been bored in the floor, evidently with the view of gaining entrance into the store of The Leader below.

Only two clues were found by officers, a brace and bit and fingerprints on the wall of the stairway at the ventilator into that part of the building occupied by The Leader. Efforts to discover the identity of the thieves have so far proved unsuccessful.

Talks of Political Conditions on Occasion of 89th Birthday

T. P. Lamkin Celebrates Anniversary by Giving Statement to Press about What Mississippians Should Do Today—Asks What Would Be Said by Spirits of Walthall, Barksdale and Others If They Could Speak—Reconstruction Days, He Says, Should Give South Enough of G. O. P.

Mr. T. P. Lamkin of Grenada, celebrated his 89th birthday August 31, and naturally one who has been blessed with such long life feels the obligation he owes to society and to his Maker, and very naturally much of the retrospective runs through his mind on that day which marks the beginning of his worldly existence. Among the numerous things Mr. Lamkin discussed was the position of the National Democratic party at this time, and particularly the threatened disloyalty to the party of some of the prominent churchmen of the south as well as a few others. Some one suggested to Mr. Lamkin that he give his ideas to the public about political matters, and about the first thing he said was that he never got into print and knew but little about preparing an article for the press, but he said that he could give his ideas and let some one else write them down; thus it was that the statement of his which follows was secured:

I read most frequently that this is an age when many people are refusing or failing to think seriously. This may or may not be true yet when I hear the people of the south and of our own state talking about voting the Republican ticket in the coming presidential election, I am persuaded that they are most certainly not thinking seriously. Assuredly they refuse to take a backward look to the days following the Civil War and to the Thaddeus Stevens, Charles Sumner and others who were devilled on enfranchising the negro not so much that they wanted to do anything for the newly freed man but because they thought it would still further humiliate the south and make it forever a foot man for the Republican party. All this, ay more, happened whether these loud mouthed people want to think about it or not.

Unfortunately Lincoln was killed. Had he lived no such things would have happened that did happen. It is true that Andrew Johnson wanted to carry out what Lincoln wished to do, but because Johnson had been a Democrat and was from the south, these rabid partisans refused to listen to him and at last tried to impeach him. All this because the people of the south, though defeated in battle, were still brave in spirit and insisted on their personal rights.

There are hundreds of other things that might be named which shows the perfidy that animated Republican leaders of that day. Yes, that transpired now 60 years ago, but let me ask have the Republican leaders shown that they do not treasure what they did then, and do not the same characteristics run through the minds of its partisan leaders now?

I am not laying any of this at the door of Mr. Hoover. I believe him to be a clean man, and one animated by the highest purposes, still one cannot get away from the company that surrounds him. Mr. Hoover's best testimonial is his association and work with Woodrow Wilson, yet he repudiated himself in his recent speech of acceptance in regard to his public endorsement of Wilson. Of course it may be that he has changed his mind.

Some of our good people are rearing about Al Smith's position on the 18th Amendment. Is it not better to be honest and to speak out what is in one's mind than to use words and phrases which may mean one thing, or many things? Let us remember Grover Cleveland's words when a committee of his party called on him in 1884 and wanted a denial from him of a charge made by the Republicans. Cleveland said, "Gentlemen, tell the truth." That's what Al Smith is doing.

I recall the days just after the close of the Civil War when Jefferson Davis was in prison and when there was talk all over the country about trying him for treason which would have resulted in executing him as a traitor. Then it was that Tammany Hall and the state of New York held out their hands and said that "we are brothers, count on us to help

Judge W. C. McLean Passes Away Sept. 8

Prominent Grenada Citizen, Profound Lawyer and Former Member Mississippi Supreme Court Crosses the River—Born in Grenada June 10, 1854—Wife, Five Sons and One Daughter Survive—Funeral Held Sunday.

Judge William Campbell McLean died at the Baptist Hospital in Memphis Saturday morning, September 8, at 9 o'clock. His remains reached Grenada that night at 8:40 o'clock on the "accommodation" train and were carried direct to his home where they remained until the funeral hour Sunday afternoon.

During the latter part of the winter Judge McLean was critically ill at Dunedin, Florida, where he and his wife have been spending the past three winters. His heart was seriously involved and for some days doubt was entertained of his ever being able to arise from his bed. His family stated that he almost begged his Maker that he might be able to "get back home"—to Grenada. He was able to return to Grenada. He reached here about July 1, but in a very weak and enfeebled condition. He expressed great joy and gratification on being able to get back home, and for some days seemed to improve. However, he appeared to feel that now he was back where his old friends were, where he was born and reared and where the dearest associations of life were, he was ready to lay down life's burdens and that it was well impossible for him to ever be well again.

A few weeks after reaching home, he was prevailed upon to go to Memphis to consult a bladder and kidney specialist. Upon examination it was found that he really ought to have a surgical operation to relieve the condition of his bladder, yet his heart was in such shape as to make it impossible to administer any sort of anesthetic, so his physician was compelled to resort to a sort of patch work. For some days he responded to treatment, and about two weeks ago, he was allowed to come home for a few days. However, after being here for a day or two and away from his physician, he became frightened about himself and was rushed back to Memphis in an ambulance. But even after his return to Memphis, he gathered himself together again and it looked for some days that he might really get well.

But the Grim Reaper had drawn that scythe which has been used on all humanity and which is destined to be used to gather in all

ROTARIANS HEAR PROGRAM OF EXCEPTIONAL MERIT

Grenada Rotarians at their meeting Tuesday, Sept. 11, heard one of the finest programs of music presented before the club in a long time. L. D. Boone, soloist, with Miss Katherine Lufkin as accompanist, entertained the club with a twenty-minute variety of songs and musical readings that brought forth round after round of applause. Mr. Boone proved himself to be an unusually versatile artist while Miss Lufkin's reputation as a musician of ability was long ago established in Grenada. A vote of thanks was extended the program committee of the club, of which Dr. C. K. Bailey is chairman, for securing and to Mr. Boone and Miss Lufkin for providing such pleasing entertainment.

C. L. Shelby, of Chicago, connected with the industrial department of the Illinois Central Railroad system, who was in the city Tuesday, was a guest at the luncheon. He spoke briefly of the work of his department and cited figures to show the great trend of industries of the north and east to the south and southwest.

Dr. J. W. Young, honorary member of the club, whose attendance has necessarily been irregular for several months on account of illness, was welcomed and he said a few words expressing his joy at being with his fellow-members once more and pledging his full cooperation with them in any movement.

Rotarian B. C. Duncan, absent for several weeks because of illness, was also welcomed and he, too, voiced his pleasure at being present.

Among the guests at the luncheon were Miss Lena Smith, assistant to the Rotary secretary, Rotarian J. D. Lanham, of Greenwood, W. J. Jennings, of Grenada, and Messrs. Fulcher, Leach, Savage and Worrel, of Ackerman.

Only two members were absent, making the attendance percentage the highest for several months.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE AT ALVA

The fourth quarterly conference for the Duck Hill circuit will be held at Hopewell (Alva) on Friday, Sept. 21, at eleven o'clock. It was formerly announced for Saturday, Sept. 22. Please let all the officials of the circuit take notice of the change in the date. The following churches compose the circuit: Duck Hill, Chapel Hill, Mars Hill, Bethel, Gore Springs, New Hope and Hopewell. A full attendance of the officials is earnestly requested.

D. D. Murphy Shows To Provide Midway

Large Carnival Aggregation to Amuse Grenada Fairgoers—Forty North Mississippi Fairgoers, October 8-13, Promises to Give Previous Efforts—An Array of Exhibits to Terror Agricultural Progress

Lovers of amusement who have seen the great D. D. Murphy Show during the past few seasons find a greatly improved edition of this popular caravan this year. All time-worn features have been eliminated and the vast Murphy midway simply overflows with attractions and rides which are genuine novelties. A mammoth new riding device known as "The Lindy Loop", the first one ever constructed, was presented to amusement seekers for the first time by the Murphy Shows at the Illinois State Fair at Springfield week of August 20th. It immediately leaped into popular favor. This ride is manufactured by the originators of "The Hey-Dey" and "The Caterpillar" and is giving its popular predecessors a hard race for real popularity.

Among the new shows presented this season are "The Original New Orleans Bandanna Girls", a colored revue with 25 people and a red hot "jazz" orchestra, the famous Hector Monkey Circus, an importation from France, in which the services of over 60 remarkably clever trained monkeys are employed, the Coney Island Circus Side Show, featuring Dr. Garfield, only living man with an exposed brain, Kemp's Motor Maniacs, an amazing freak animal show, "Gems De France 1928", a dainty singing, dancing and posing jubilee, featuring Miss Alice Melville, "Jumbo", ponderous ox-slaying, elephant from India, the Original 8 Royal Court Midgets, the highest salaried carnival attraction in tour, and a half score of other meritorious features. There are also 12 massive riding devices, 2 kiddies' rides and 3 comical fun houses on the great Murphy midway.

The Murphy shows will furnish the midway attractions for the 40th North Mississippi Fair which opens in Grenada Oct. 8th, continuing for six days through Oct. 13. They have played here on several different occasions before and none who has witnessed any of their shows has had aught to complain about. The same high class personnel is to be found with the organization this year.

In addition to the midway amusements at this year's fair a variety of splendid free vaudeville acts will be presented in front of the grandstand daily. The acts were selected only after the most painstaking consideration and comparison with others of like character. They promise to furnish their faithful patrons with entertainment at the 1928 meet.

Exhibits already booked exceed in number and variety any shown in any previous fair. The wonderful progress that this section has made in an agricultural way will be vividly mirrored to the thousands who visit the Grenada exposition.

A decided innovation for those who come to the fair is that they will share in the opportunity to secure free of cost one, two, three or four registered Jersey cows to be given away on the first four days of the fair. On the fifth day, Friday, $100 in gold is to be given to someone. Full details of the awarding of these cows and this gold may be learned from a circular that the fair association is scattering broadcast in the fair district.

Grenada is making great preparations for the 40th fair and race meet. Arrangements are being made to take care of the great number of people that have ever been in the city and fair officials are elated over the bright prospects for a successful meet.

ELECTION COMMISSIONERS NAMED BY STATE BOARD

The State Board of Election Commissioners, composed of Governor Theo. G. Bilbo, Attorney General Rush H. Knox and Secretary of State Walker Wood, has announced the appointments of the election commissioners for the various counties of the state. In Grenada county, W. D. Salmon and J. H. Harris, two members of the old board, were named to succeed themselves and J. P. Pressgrove was appointed to succeed R. E. Perry, who did not desire reappointment.

The new member is a young man of wide acquaintance in the county, he is energetic and should make a valuable addition to the personnel of the Grenada county body.

BAPTIST ASSOCIATION WILL MEET WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 25

The meeting of the Grenada County Baptist Association has been postponed to Sept. 26th. Many requests of the farmers is the cause of this change as they will be through gathering their crops by then. Place of meeting, Pleasant Grove Church. Date Sept. 26th. O. L. KIMBROUGH, W. T. Turner, Clerk Moderator

Rev. J. W. Lee Again Argues Against Democratic Nominee

Believes What Church Publication Says about Tammany Hall—Thinks Resolutions by Certain Religious Bodies Ought to Have Controlled Democratic Convention—Stakes All on 18th Amendment—Ignores All Other Issues—Editorial Comment Follows Article of Batesville Minister.

Editor Sentinel:
I thank you for publishing my article. I appreciate very much the kind things you say of me personally.

If I merit them I say with the apostle Paul: "By the grace of God I am what I am." After reading your reply to what I said I am just wondering: First: If all the editors of our southern papers take the position that my friend Lawrence does: viz. that Tammany Hall is a moral and humanitarian institution of the highest type. The editor of the Christian Herald says Tammany is corrupt.

The Christian Herald is one of the oldest and most popular Christian papers in the United States. It is published in New York City, the home of Tammany Hall and Al Smith.

The Grenada Sentinel is published over a thousand miles away. Which editor shall I believe? My friend must pardon me for believing the one in the best position to know.

Second: I am just wondering if all the supporters of Al Smith take the position that my friend Lawrence does: viz. That the Methodist conferences, Presbyterian synods and Baptist conventions, north and south, who protested against the nomination of Al Smith, were composed of "hand picked" men and women who do not represent the citizenship of America.

It is a sad day for America when these great Christian bodies are not considered representative and whose petitions and protests must be disregarded and even defied.

Third: I am just wondering if all the supporters of Al Smith take the position that my friend Lawrence does: viz. That the nine hundred and ninety-nine protestant preachers out of every thousand and who cannot conscientiously vote for Al Smith have consciences on a par with those of early days who burned some for witchcraft and persecuted other religionists who did not agree with them.

I am indeed sorry that the conscientious conduct of practically the entire protestant ministry appears so intolerant, cruel and despicable in the mind of my friend.

Fourth: I am just wondering if all the supporters of Al Smith take the position that my friend Lawrence does: viz. That the Eighteenth Amendment which it took the friends of temperance, the friends of the home and the friends of the church generations to have written in our organic laws is of little value and should not be looked upon at all as sacred and that no very great effort should be made for its preservation.

Fifth: I am just wondering if all the supporters of Al Smith are as well satisfied as my friend Lawrence is with Mr. Smith's reasons for voting ten times against allowing the people to vote on any sort of restriction on the sale of liquor, four times against stepping gambling and prostitution in connection with saloons, three times against repealing the law keeping the saloons open on Sunday, four times in favor of removing zoning restrictions which would keep open saloons from churches and schools and three times in favor of laws sponsored by organized gambling. I am just wondering if Mr. Hoover had cast such votes and had given Mr. Smith's reasons for so doing whether my friend would be as easily satisfied.

Sixth: I am just wondering if all the supporters of Al Smith deny (as my friend Lawrence virtually does) that Al Smith is a drinking man when Mr. Smith nor any of his intimate friends deny it. If Mr. Smith drinks, he gets his liquor illegally, and he is therefore a lawbreaker. Shall I by my vote help to put a lawbreaker into the highest office in my native land? Every worthy principle in me says no.

Editorial: Our good friend, Bro. Lee, is back again. But he advances nothing new. What we stated in regard to his position last week covers all he says in the

Farm Association Issues Statement

Executive Committee Tells Something of Work Done but Says Work Barely Begun—Must Go Ahead—No Officer Draws Pay—How Money to Finance Association Obtained—Amount of Milk and Cream Shipped.

To the Public and Particularly the Farmers of Grenada County and Contiguous Territory:

We are making this public statement through the columns of The Grenada Sentinel as to the Grenada County Farm Development Association and what it has accomplished for several reasons, but mainly for the reason that what it has attempted to do is a matter of importance to every citizen in Grenada County and surrounding territory, and for the reason that we honestly believe that from such efforts as this association has made must and will come the financial independence of the farmers of this section and the placing of the business interests of all classes on a sound footing.

It will be borne in mind that nobody connected with the Farm Development Association has made one single dollar of profit thereby. It will be borne in mind that its organizers and promoters did not initiate and promote the association as a matter of pure dollars and cents, or to make money out of it. Hence the association is answerable to no men or set of men who are expecting any dividends or profits. Of course it has required money to do what the Farm Development Association has done, but that was subscribed by the merchants, bankers and others of Grenada not as a matter of benevolence or philanthropy, but because it was believed, and is now believed, that what the association purposed to do would aid the farmers, who constitute the first and the last line of breastworks for every other business, certainly for every other class of business in this section, and as for that matter in every other agricultural section.

When the Farm Development Association was launched, there was a number of representative citizens who agreed to give the necessary time from their own affairs to make the association go. These men did what they said they would do and are still doing so. At the same time there was an Executive Committee named who was expected to meet monthly, or oftener if the occasion demanded, to keep closely in touch with what had been done and to plan what should be done from time to time. The names of the Executive Com-

DEMOCRATS PREPARE FOR BIG MASS MEET

Loyal Grenada County Democrats Called to Organize Smith-Robinson Club at the Courthouse Tomorrow Morning—Capt. R. N. Provine and Col. R. H. Henry to Address Gathering—Hoped Great Crowd Will Attend.

Grenada County Democrats should not forget the call that was issued last week for a mass meeting to be held in the court house at Grenada tomorrow, Saturday, morning at 11 o'clock. At that time it is hoped to organize a Smith-Robinson Club and to transact such other business as may be deemed expedient. A lively interest has been manifested in the county this week in the plans for the meeting and it is hoped that the court room will be taxed to capacity to accommodate the staunch and loyal Democrats who will attend.

Capt. R. N. Provine, practically 90 years old, is to be on hand and address the meeting in behalf of the Smith-Robinson ticket. Capt. Provine is no halfway man. He has always believed in entering wholeheartedly into any cause he espouses.

Col. R. H. Henry, veteran editor and long one of the most potent factors in the Democratic party of Mississippi, is also to be present and make an address. Col. Henry knows the history of Mississippi since years before the Civil War and is therefore in a position to tell of what Republicanism has meant in the state. Col. Henry has never let up on prohibition, but is not letting one little issue steer him away from the old Democratic ship.

A situation is now confronting the party in Mississippi such as this state has never before witnessed. Many have positively asserted that they would not support the nominee giving as their reason Governor Smith's declaration as to the 18th Amendment. It has been learned that others who do not intend to support the ticket and who have not been so bold as to declare themselves, have been indulging in a "whispering campaign" against the party candidates. It is to combat such assaults that Smith-Robinson clubs are being formed all over the state and it is believed and firmly hoped that such a tremendous vote will be polled in the November elections in Mississippi as to forever silence the "whisperers" and the party altercations.

SONS OF JUDGE MCLEAN LIVING IN FLORIDA

The three sons of the late Judge Wm. C. McLean who are now residents of Florida were at his bedside before the judge's death. They were in and about Grenada for several days this week meeting friends and shaking hands with boyhood chums.

Wm. C. Jr. is the only one of the boys who took to the law. He is located at Tampa and has already built up a good practice. Like his father, he has the qualities that make men know things—he is a student and is ready to dig for the depths of the law. Campbell, as he is known in Grenada, is a likeable young man and makes the impression as a cautious, calculating and dependable man upon all with whom he comes in contact.

Frank is on the orange farm, and is also raising chickens. He has the Florida spirit and has thoroughly established himself in the confidence of all who have got to know him there. His post office is Palm Harbor.

Russell chose the profession of dentistry. He located at Dunedin and is more than pleased with his success. He is the youngest member of the family.

It is a matter of satisfaction to the friends of these young men in Grenada that they are applying themselves so diligently to their duties and that they are not forgetting that the most important things of life are those of character.

BEGIN WEDNESDAY MATINEE

Beginning next Wednesday, Sept. 19, the Grenada Theatre will resume its Wednesday matinees which were discontinued during the summer months. This will give the picture going public the opportunity of seeing three matinee performances during the week, on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

The hour of the matinee is 3:30 but, beginning Saturday, Sept. 22, the Saturday matinee will start at 2 o'clock so as to give the people from the territory surrounding Grenada an opportunity to see the picture program and reach their homes before dark. The Monday and Wednesday matinee hours will remain unchanged.

HOOVER EMPHASIZES POWER OF THE INDIVIDUAL

Herbert Hoover is credited with having recently published a small booklet entitled, "American Individualism". We have not seen the publication but have seen quotations from it. One particular thing credited to this booklet is Mr. Hoover's emphasis on the power of each individual in which he brings out the thought that we have several times used in these columns, and that is this, "The average individual will give a correct judgment on a proposition when he considers it alone; it is only when men begin to act in bodies that they show the part of a fool".

In harmony with this idea Mr. Hoover says: "one of the most profound and important of exact psychological truths is that man in the mass does not think, but only feels". This answers why mobs are dangerous, and serves to explain the folly that emanates from bodies of men unless there is a group or a few who map out what needs to be done before the body convenes.

"American individualism", Hoover says, "means far more than the accumulation and security of private property. It aims to provide opportunity for self-expression, not merely economically, but spiritually as well. Private property is not a fetish in America".

In regard to what organizations may attempt and how the public must consider them, whether they be commercial, political, labor, or something else, he says:

"If they develop into warring interests, if they dominate legislators and intimidate public officials, if they are to be a new setting of tyranny, then they will destroy the foundation of individualism. Our government will then drift into the hands of timorous mediocrities dominated by groups until we shall become a syndicalist nation on a gigantic scale. On the other hand, each group is a realization of greater mutuality of interest, each contains some element of public service and each is a school of public responsibility. * * * In the end, no group can dominate the nation and a few successes in imposing the will of any group is its sure death warrant."

Mr. Hoover would arouse the citizenship of the country to their individual responsibilities. He would wake them up to the importance of trying to learn something more about their government and the men chosen for official duty; he would wake them up to taking a little while off from their "business" in order to properly exercise the obligation of voting.

In other words, if the American people would act on the wise conclusions advanced by Mr. Hoover in this booklet, there would be less of "let George do it", and instead of only 52 per cent, as was the case in 1924, of the voters of the United States taking interest enough in the choice of a President, the greatest political office in all the world, to vote, there would be at least 98 per cent of the electorate to exercise suffrage.

It is the habit of the world and has been since the days of Adam to excuse ourselves and to take consolation in the idea, "well, what I do will amount to nothing anyway".

Heaven never helps the man who will not act.—Sophocles.

MEANING OF EDUCATION.

Education does not mean teaching people what they do not know. It means teaching them to behave as they do not behave. It is not teaching the youth the shapes of letters and tricks of numbers, and then leaving them to turn their arithmetic to roguery, and their literature to lust. It means, on the contrary, training them into the perfect exercise of kindly continence of their bodies and souls. It is a painful, continual and difficult work to be done by kindness, by watching, by warning, by precept, and by praise, but above all—by example.—John Ruskin.

There are four kinds of people, three of which are to be avoided and the fourth cultivated—those who don't know what they don't know; those who know that they don't know; those who don't know that they know, and those who know that they know.—Rendering of an Arab Proverb.

THE NEWSPAPERS DOING THEIR PART.

Newspapers, almost without exception, in Mississippi have for the years stood for and advocated those things in morals and public life that have helped to build the right sort of character and that have meant for business development and abiding prosperity.

Only recently the Jackson Clarion-Ledger issued a mammoth edition sponsored by the "Business Women's Organization" of Jackson. It was a step forward. It carried a most helpful and a most encouraging message throughout.

Still more recently the McComb City Enterprise got out a large edition carrying a business message for the city of McComb and for the entire state. It made a fine showing for that fine community.

Besides these there are others. It takes a great deal of extra work and many hours of hard thinking to get out such editions. In truth, the editor and manager who takes his task seriously—and the one who does not take his task seriously has no business getting out a newspaper—has a task all the time. The real editor and newspaper man knows that what he writes is permanent; future generations read it and to a large extent measure his town and community by the character of what the paper contains. What men say on the streets and elsewhere, unless taken note of by some newspaper, is like the chaff; it is blown away and soon forgotten.

However, despite how intelligently and how sincerely the editor gives himself to his duties, there is an occasional popinjay who prates about what he did and, as so many of them put it now, "how I fought for this or that" as he thinks it may impress the casual-minded public, never for a moment mentioning the newspaper but for whose columns maybe he would have been lost in the backwoods of seclusion.

Stop the newspapers of Mississippi and of the whole country and the rivulets of mirth and reason will cease to flow; the springs of brotherly interests and of community pride will almost dry up at the source and the clocks on the tower that mark time will hide their faces and the dew drops that foster that which is best will cease and the sunlight of true progress will go into an eclipse.

DEMOCRATS SHOULD ATTEND MEETING

Call has been issued for a countywide meeting of Grenada County Democrats to be held at the courthouse in Grenada tomorrow, Saturday, morning at 11 o'clock. The purpose of the gathering, as stated in the call, is to organize a "Smith-Robinson Club" in Grenada County. Those sponsoring the meeting say that they have "an abiding faith in the principles of government as promulgated by the Democratic party—the party of our fathers—and" believe "that the future welfare of the South—politically and economically—requires the white men and white women of our state to remain loyal and steadfast to the party and its nominees".

We heartily agree with these true and loyal sons and daughters of Democracy and hope that such an organization will be perfected that its strength and solidarity will in itself be a stinging rebuke to the misinformed and misguided critics, many of them well meaning and sincere, of the party nominees. While we entertain no fears that Mississippi and the solid South will go other than Democratic in the November elections it is refreshing to see staunch Democrats actively interesting themselves in party affairs. These vigilant followers of Democratic principles cannot forget the rottenness and the corruption that have been rampant in the nation during the past seven years under Republican rule. They cannot forget the many scandals that have befouled the Republican nest.

We urge every Democrat in Grenada County, ladies as well as men, to attend the gathering tomorrow and to take such action as will pledge their continued allegiance to the party and what it advocates and that will rebuke its carping critics.

Washington needs an official housecleaning and Grenada County, Mississippi will do its part in applying the scouring brush.

NEW PUBLICATION—PROGRESSIVE ERA.

The Sentinel received this week the initial edition of "The Progressive Era in Mississippi". It contains 30 pages and is well illustrated to carry out the purposes of its editor and promoters. Mr. E. L. Tarry, well known in Grenada and a cultured gentleman and forceful writer, is managing editor, which serves to guarantee that the material, editorial and otherwise, will be of a high class.

From its introductory message, The Sentinel takes the following well stated paragraph:

"We need more population of the right sort and we do not need any sort that is not right. And we want, and need money in the state but we need men more. Money without brain and muscle behind it is as inert as a basket of chips. We would rather have 500 men with a thousand dollars each come to us than one man with five hundred thousand. And yet, we could use him too". The Sentinel wishes for the Progressive Era success.

THE STAR-HERALD'S DAIRYING EDITION.

The Kosciusko-Star Herald issued a dairying edition of 20 pages September 6. The contents of the issue were in thorough accord with the name it bore and gives unmistakable evidence that the people of Attala County are determined to break the chains that bind them to cotton alone and which the years have shown mean mortgages and financial disaster and often penury and the loss of home, and that they are going to make an honest effort to use the resources which they have that will take care of cows, make milk and a little money every day instead of "just a little money at Christmas time". The Star-Ledger rendered its business interests and its farming interests a distinct service in getting out the edition.

SOMEBODY TOLD ME

(By C. A. Thing)

That scientists and philosophers have reached the point where they can give the reason or cause for everything.

This person wishes some of these learned ones would explain a few things that have been worrying him lately during his infrequent spells of thinking. What causes a dog to bay at the moon? My boyhood days were spent on a farm (as were most noted writers) and my older brother was the proud possessor of a fine pair of real 'possum hounds. Now if you have never heard a "sho nuff" 'possum hound on the trail, you have missed one of the greatest treats in life, but to have a pair of them chained outside your window start their unearthly howling about one-thirty in the morning, when a great silvery disc climbs majestically into the clear winter sky above the timbered tops of neighboring hills and awake you from sweet slumbers spoiling your whole night's sleep, is quite another matter. Mister Scientist, why does a dog howl at the moon?

We could go on asking these wise men question after question that any four-year old child might ask and make them do quite a bit of thinking, but the real thing I desire explained is this—What is the Republicans' motive in sending so much of their campaign money into the south? Do they think we southern Democrats, like that pair of hounds, can be shown something bright and shiny, far off in the distance, (Republican Dollars) and set us to howling in such a manner as to disturb the equilibrium of our party? Would some learned philosopher tell me what kind or class of people those folks up there think we southerners are? Surely the history of the people who live below the Mason and Dixon line justifies no such slur as that.

That the cotton prices continue to tumble downward owing to the various reports of the Department of Agriculture's estimate of the crop.

What we southern farmers fail to understand is how after a year of flood, drouth, boll-weevils and hard work, the estimate of the cotton crop when the farmers began to place their product on the market just about doubles all earlier estimates. What a "Farm Relief" question.

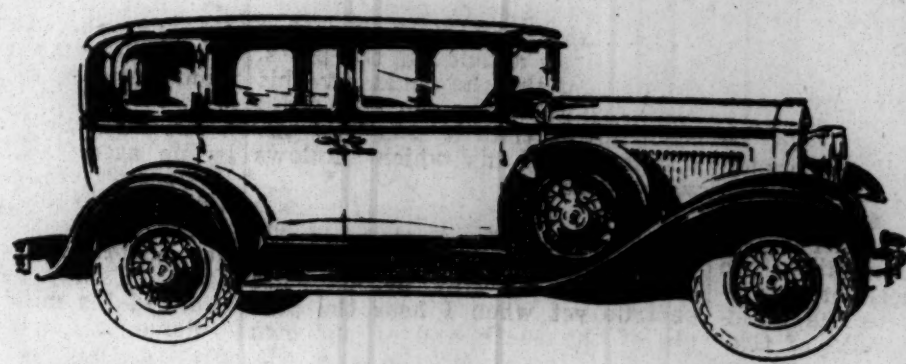

That Clarence Darrow, noted lawyer of Chicago, will support Al Smith.

We think that if Darrow can exercise the same power over the voters of Chicago that he does over her justices, Al is due quite a few votes in a Republican stronghold.

A LARGER AND FINER NEW SENIOR

The New Senior Six is a brilliant and impressive example of Dodge Brothers craftsmanship at its finest.

In action as well as in looks it can honestly and conservatively be called Dodge Brothers masterpiece.

The lines, colors, interiors and appointments strike a note that is refreshingly new and original. Its exceptional power, pick-up and flexibility reveal the splendid resources of the New Senior engine.

Moreover, the car is longer, faster and finer in every respect with deep, wide luxurious seats, rich interior appointments and complete fine car equipment.

In fact, every visible and invisible detail of New Senior design reflects unstinted credit on the high and progressive standards of Dodge Brothers.

See it—and you will understand why Dodge Brothers regard it as a value without precedent in their history.

Available in six distinguished body types—The Sport Sedan, $1795—The Sport Coupe with Rumble Seat, $1795—The London Sedan, $1845—These prices include six wire wheels and six tires... TATE PLACES HIGH VALUE ON SARGON

Merchant Wouldn't Take $1,000 for Good New Formula Did Him, He Says.

Although Sargon is called a "tonic", it is for want of a better word to describe this epoch-making new formula, which has accomplished such astonishing and gratifying results wherever it has been introduced.

It must in no manner be confused with old-fashioned tonics, limited in their action to a purely stimulative effect.

Sargon is designed to exert a tremendous and permanent influence on certain vital organs and fluids of the body, so that they will perform their proper functions as Nature intended them to do.

So-called tonics of the past, in the great majority of cases, have fallen far short of Sargon's powerful, invigorating effects, simply because medical science had not reached its present day high development and could not prescribe with such far reaching benefits as it can today. This advance in learning made it possible for Sargon to be developed.

Everywhere Sargon has been introduced literally thousands have endorsed it. Among the number is W. I. Tate, who owns a well stocked grocery store at 2563 Poplar Pike, Memphis, Tenn. He said:

"I had been in a terribly weak rundown condition for several years, suffering with indigestion and stomach trouble. Most everything I ate soured on my stomach and caused gas to form. I was so dizzy at times I couldn't walk without staggering. I lost weight until I only weighed 105 pounds. I became so weak I couldn't walk two blocks. I would just play out and have to stop. Nothing reached my case until I took Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills. I no longer suffer with constipation or indigestion and am just full of new life and energy. I was so wonderfully strengthened after taking two bottles of Sargon I walked to the drug store, which is a mile from here, for another bottle. I now feel like I could walk four or five miles. I have a fine appetite and have gained fourteen pounds. I wouldn't take one thousand dollars for the good Sargon did me." Sargon may be obtained in Grenada from the Corner Drug Store.

The new Buick is the New Style

Graceful contours instead of straight lines...the gleam and sparkle of brilliant colors and chrome plating instead of drab effects...the most beautiful bodies ever built... Buick's masterpiece bodies by Fisher

At a time when motor car beauty was practically standardized—when imitation was the vogue—when there was a glaring lack of originality in body design—Buick has swept far beyond the commonplace and achieved a style which the entire country is acclaiming as the most distinctive and beautiful ever shown!

Fisher, the world's foremost builder of automobile bodies, has cooperated with Buick, the world's foremost builder of fine cars, to create a new mode—a new fashion—and so luminous is the result and so eagerly is the public welcoming it that Buick's great factories have reached new production levels in an effort to keep pace with an ever increasing demand!

Inside and out, the new Buick bodies by Fisher are the most beautiful ever built. Together with the wonderful new standards of performance introduced by the Silver Anniversary Buick, they are winning the greatest demand and the greatest preference ever enjoyed by any fine car!

The new Buick is the new style! And by that is meant, not merely a new type of beauty—not merely a thrilling turning point in body design—but a great countrywide vogue!

Column About Colored People of Grenada County Items by J. H. Phillips

The Grenada High School (Col) Opened Monday Morning.

The Grenada High School (Col) of this city opened Monday at 10 a. m. The children and many of their parents and friends of the school were present with smiling faces greeting each other with apparent joy for the prospects ahead in school life. A program for the opening had been arranged by the faculty. Mrs. Willie Wilson was in charge as mistress of ceremonies. She prepared the program with suitable remarks and Rev. A. S. Blake read a scripture selection. Rev. A. Nabors offered prayer. Prof. Rundle, supt of city schools, was introduced and made some remarks. Mr. Atkinson, county supt., was present and addressed the audience. The school term begins under the management of the new principal, Prof. A. M. Rodgers, who comes from Alcorn College where he was an instructor in science. He, in a few brief remarks, presented to the student body his methods and rules that pupils and parents must conform to in order to have a harmonious term. A carefully selected faculty was introduced to the pupils and parents as follows: Miss Millie A. Jones of Port Gibson, 5th grade; Miss Beatrice Gray of Brookhaven; Miss Ada McLane of this city, 2nd grade; Mrs. W. F. Wilson of this city, 7th grade; Mrs. S. E. Walhall of this city, Primary teacher; Miss Naoma Parker of Duck Hill, 3rd grade; Mrs. Erma Cotton of Jackson, 4th grade; Miss Medora Ammons, Home Science teacher; Miss L. Toska Golden of Jackson, 6th grade; Prof. A. M. Rodgers, principal, 8th, 9th and 10th grades; Mrs. E. J. Rodgers, assistant principal; Prof. W. W. Blackburn, Rev. Wm. Barnes, Rev. A. S. Blake, G. M. Chisholm, Prof. A. H. Henderson and many others were upon the platform to bid the administration of the school Godspeed.

Prof. Rodgers called the parents of the children to meet him Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A splendid representation greeted him. He, in a few well selected words, appealed to them for their cooperation in his plan to make this school term the best in its history. A Parent Teachers Association was organized with Mrs. Luveta Bohanan as president, Mrs. B. L. Steptoe, vice president, Mrs. Florence Williams, secretary, Mrs. Ella Clark, treasurer, Mrs. Victoria Tillman, assistant secretary, Mrs. Hellen Cain, corresponding secretary. The first meeting of the P. T. A. was announced for Friday evening, Sept. 21st, at the school auditorium at 8 o'clock at which time enrollment of members and completion of the organization will be the order. Any one interested in a successful school year is eligible and is solicited to become a member.

Rosenwald Schools
Prof. W. W. Blackburn, of Jackson, Miss., passed through our city enroute home from an attendance on the National Baptist Convention held at Louisville, Ky. Prof. Blackburn is agent of the Julius Rosenwald fund. His sphere of work is the arrangement with trustees of schools desiring appropriations to investigate title, location and general conditions pertaining to the establishment of Rosenwald Schools. He addressed the trustees that had come to meet him on this occasion looking to the establishment of a Rosenwald School. Mr. Atkinson, county

Supt. of Education, gave his assistance in advice and helped in planning methods to secure such preliminaries as are necessary to succeed. The Tie Plant and Ox-berry communities each qualified in the necessary conditions and will proceed immediately with their work. Prof. Henderson is doing much to help in securing a consideration for these efforts to get these school buildings. Our people will have to lay down their selfish desires to have these schools located at their door and quit squabbling so much and unite on a plan of concentration.

Miss Rosa Brown, of Memphis, Tenn., passed through the city enroute back home. She had been to visit her relatives at Cascilla. While here she was the guest of Miss Lillie Phillips on South Street. Miss Brown is stenographer in the office of the Universal Ins. Co., of Memphis.

At the regular preaching service at Mt. Herman Church, of which Rev. C. G. Sevens is pastor, Prof. A. H. Henderson presented the claim of charity for the benefit of the Old Folks Home of this city and in a few minutes a nice sum of $10.10 was raised. This is Prof. Henderson's home community and the response to his call in quick time is an index not only to their liberality but confidence the community reposes in him for what he says and undertakes to do. As much can be done in any of our rural centers when the claim is presented if some one would take the initiative and properly present the cause.

A Card of Thanks
We are deeply grateful to the many friends who were so thoughtful and sympathetic in the loss that came to us in the tragic death of our wife and mother, Kissie Dunaway. We extend our thanks to the white friends, Mr. Sherwood and others, for their kindness shown us in the times of our extreme grief. The floral offerings which were many and beautiful were much appreciated. We pray that God will repay each of you.

J. H. Dunaway and Family.
The esteem which our people of this community held for Judge W. C. McLean is such that we through this column desire to express our sorrow and bereavement in his death. We feel that he was a friend to our race and to humanity and that in every expectation of him he was always ready and willing to give us sane and wholesome advice. We regret his demise and here enter our sympathy in this hour of bereavement.

Rt. Rev. Wm. Decker Johnston, presiding bishop of the eighth Episcopal district, will preach at Powell Chapel, A. M. E. Church Sunday, Sept. 16th, at 11 o'clock a. m. An invitation is extended to the public to come and hear him. His wife will accompany him and will preside over a mass meeting to be held at the church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The committee, composed of K. D. Fisher, Callie Taylor and Ellen Kilgore, reports that the fourth and last quarterly conference held by Presiding Elder Wm. E. Barnes was a great success.

SORE Could Not Rest

Mrs. J. H. Nichols, who lives at 513 Elm Tree Lane, Lexington, Ky., says:
"Some few years ago, my health was bad. I had very severe pains in my sides. My nerves were in a terrible condition. I could not rest."

"The lower part of my body was very sore. I did not feel like eating, and did not sleep well at all at nights."

"A friend of mine recommended Cardui. I began taking it and saw quite an improvement in my condition. I kept it up until I felt strong and well."

About a year ago, Mrs. Nichols says, she found herself in a nervous, run-down condition. "I took Cardui again," she adds, "and it helped me wonderfully. It is a splendid tonic."

Cardui is a mild, medicinal tonic, made from purely vegetable ingredients.

FARM ASSOCIATION
ISSUES STATEMENT

mittee are attached to this article. It was seen at once, after perfecting the organization, that a field man was needed to go from farm to farm, from community to community, to personally inspect the dairy cows sold and to make suggestions to the farmers as to how best care for the cows so as to make them the best milkers. Mr. H. C. Hampton was chosen for this duty and we think he has met the duties assigned him quite well. All this by way of review. What concerns us most now is the future and the best way to proceed.

We are glad to be able to state that with but a few exceptions, those to whom the association has sold dairy cows, or for whom it has purchased cows, have lived up to their contracts and that in nearly every case these state that the cow and her output have been a financial benediction to them. As is generally understood, cows were sold to worthy citizens or bought for them, upon their agreeing to pay one-half of their monthly milk checks in payment. Right here it is perhaps proper to state that, owing to new conditions, and that the association already has so many obligations due it which are unpaid, it was deemed advisable at a meeting of the Executive Committee held Tuesday for the present, at least, to limit the activities of the association so far as any advances are concerned to residents of this county.

It is well to state that there have been 257 cows sold to farmers in this trade territory. In addition to these, the work of the Farm Development Association has been the inspiration that has prompted the purchase of perhaps more than thirty cows by other citizens. Besides this, it has awakened an interest in those already owning cows. Better treatment has been given the cow; more attention has been given to milk and butter and to the smaller things about the farms which yield a little revenue all the time. The names of a half dozen at least could be given who bear testimony to the fact that but for the work of the association, their roses would still be on the grind rock. Now we submit that the putting of even six families on the road to better financial conditions and home independence is no small thing of itself.

In thinking of our dairy cows and what the milk and butter business means to the whole country and the condenser and cheese plants that are springing up over our state, it is not amiss to say to our farmer friends that caring for milk and condenseries came from the brain and the work of Louis Latzer, born on a farm near Highland, Ill., in 1848. Latzer had no idea except to remain on a farm, but in 1885 he met a Swiss who told him that he had got the idea fixed in his head that milk could be kept indefinitely by concentrating it and placing it in airtight containers and sterilizing it. A small company was organized by the farmers and a few business men in the vicinity of Highland and Latzer was made a director. The enterprise did not go well for a while, but Latzer was wise enough to know that he should try to care for milk so he put himself to work and learned much about the science. The business went forward by leaps and bounds and from this small beginning, the country has come to know "Pet Milk" plants and others like it.

The cream shipments from Grenada in August were 2880 gallons, went to Clarksdale, Winona and Water Valley there were 6,000 gallons by truck. The whole milk sold by local dairymen for the month was 7560 gallons. In addition to sales above referred to, Holcomb, Elliott, Hardy must be considered.

The cream shipments from Grenada for the month of August, 1927, were 1365 gallons and the estimated milk sold by local dairymen, 4000 gallons.

We want to thank our farmer friends for the cooperation they have given. But let none of us think that the work has been accomplished.

JUDGE W. C. McLEAN
PASSES AWAY SEPT. 8

the earth and there was no way to the further delay his using it. Thus the threads of life were severed and the golden bowl was broken and the pitcher fell at the well and the spirit of one of Grenada's most prominent citizens, one of the state's most able and most successful lawyers and a truly upright citizen and loyal son laid down life's burdens to take on that life which exists "beyond the river".

He was born in Grenada, June 10, 1854. He was a son of Robert D. and Mary Whitaker McLean. He came from a line of lawyers. His father came from Kentucky and was one of the strong members of the Grenada bar from 1836 to 1874. His grandfather, Judge Alney McLean, was a circuit judge, later a supreme judge and afterwards a congressman from Kentucky.

The judge got his early education in the schools of Grenada. He was graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1874 and returned to Grenada for the practice of law. Things did not go well with him as a lawyer for sometime; he had an experience as a young barrister that so frequently comes to young lawyers. But he applied himself diligently to his books and so favorably did he impress Hon. Wm. R. Barksdale, then regarded as one of the most brilliant members of the bar of north Mississippi, that he offered him a partnership, which was accepted. Barksdale lived but a few years and upon his death a great deal of his business fell to Judge McLean, all of which he handled with great satisfaction to his clients and with much credit to himself. It was but a few years until he was making a profound impression as a lawyer. As the years passed, his fame increased and he became known as a lawyer who went to the very bottom of every legal proposition and who never knew defeat. A temporary reversal before a court never daunted him; he would simply fall upon another line of attack and sally forth again as one who knew what he was about.

In the early years of his practice, he handled many criminal cases. The one which gave him the greatest fame was perhaps that in which he, together with other able lawyers, defended Messrs. B. L. H. Wright, senior and junior, charged with the murder of Eugene Melton on the streets of Grenada in the mid-eighties. There was some disagreement among defense attorneys as to the line of defense and it was found necessary to call the accused as to whose judgment they would take. The defendants said, "We want you, Bill, to lead the case". Of this case the judge had been heard to say that the responsibility placed on him by the defendants was so great that he could not sleep at night and after it was over he resolved to get into no more murder trials. The Wrights were acquitted.

He knew the law books. Many times he has been heard to say that "genius is a rare thing; the lawyer who wins his cases is the one who digs it out of the books". Judge McLean's name had been associated with politics a number of times, but he was never but once an active candidate and that was for district attorney in 1879. There were several candidates; Ira D. Oglesby of Senatobia won the nomination.

The press of the state had much to say of him about the race for Governor in 1895 and the notices were so numerous and so complimentary that he published a card declining to become a candidate.

When the constitutional convention was called in 1890, there was a unanimity of judgment in Grenada County that he should be sent as the county's representative. Numerous signed petitions were gotten up over the county asking him to run. The sentiment was so universal that no one offered against him. When the convention was organized, he was recognized as one of its ablest members and was therefore named as a member of the judiciary, franchise and apportionment committee. The judge played an important part with General George S. S. Calhoun, J. W. Cutler and others in naming the now famous election clause of Mississippi's constitution.

On October 11, 1911, Gov. E. F. Noel named him as a member of the Mississippi supreme court. Collins of this county August 21, 1892. From this marriage there are six living children, Robert D., Alney C., Frank C., Wm. C., Jr. and Russell, and Susie, now Mrs. W. C. Trotter. His first wife died in 1900 and on February 14, 1906, he was married to Miss Belle Chamberlain, of Vicksburg, who survives him. In both instances, he was blessed with the love and affection of two women of lovely character and of fine Christian graces.

Judge McLean had long been a member of the Presbyterian church and for many years was an elder in that church. He stood on the moral side of every question. When the fight to oust the saloon was on in Grenada County, he was one of the many who took the stump against the whiskey traffic and there was nobody who dealt the saloon interests more telling blows than he did.

Judge McLean was a loving, provident and devoted husband. He got his greatest joy out of his home. He was an affectionate father. Like all good fathers, there was nothing good that he would withhold from his children. Even after they reached years of maturity, he followed them with tender care and solicitude that animates the breast of every right sort of parent.

By nature he was not what the world calls a "mixer" and yet he had many loyal friends. He was loyal to his friends and if he thought that any of them needed him in any way, he was never slow to let them know that he and whatever he had were at their command.

He believed in the Christian religion. He tried to keep square with his Maker. Day by day he went to God in prayer. Often he stood before audiences in his church and proclaimed the beauty, the joy and the satisfaction of a trusting faith in the redemptive blood of Jesus. One of the most sublimely beautiful, effective, touching and appealing addresses a Grenada audience ever listened to in a church was one which Judge McLean delivered some five years ago at the union service held at the First Baptist church in this city. His subject was, "The second coming of Christ".

In all the weeks and months of his illness, the good wife was at his bedside by day and by night as a ministering angel. There are many like instances but the writer, having gone through to some extent Judge McLean's hospital experience, knows full well what his wife meant to him in those trying hours. It is no wonder that Angels are thought of as feminine. The funeral services were held from the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon where a large concourse of friends, including a number from other towns, were present to pay their last tribute to his memory. The pastor, Rev. R. L. McLeod, assisted by Rev. J. H. Holder, of the Methodist church, and Dr. J. R. Countess, president of Grenada College, conducted the services. It was left to Dr. Countess to say the words personal to Judge McLean's life and, as he always does, he spoke fittingly and paid a splendid tribute to the life and character of the deceased. After the services at the church, the remains were carried to Odd Fellows' cemetery and there laid to rest to await that Judgment only known to the Eternal One.

It is but to use the colored people to say that there was a number of the older ones of that race in Grenada, and some few from the county, who were present at the judge's funeral. The affection and the good will of the thinking colored man is best understood and appreciated only by the southern man with whose life they have been linked for the years.

To the writer, Judge McLean had shown friendship on sundry occasions in a substantial way, and he shares with the family a genuine grief over the judge's departure.

NOMINEE

communication above but lest the observant reader might fail to connect his former article with this one, we are going to try once again to "show" our Brother.

We want Bro. Lee to understand that we are not concerned about what effect his position, or that of any of the other clergymen of the Baptist, Methodist or Presbyterian churches (and just here we want to state that we have not observed that any Presbyterian minister has been using the time of his congregation or his pulpit to deliver Philipics against Al Smith or Tammany Hall) may have on the result of the election but we are concerned about saving the influence of the Christian churches from the misguided efforts of some of those who stand behind sacred desks.

Our Brother thinks (note we say "thinks") he would prefer the judgment of the Christian Herald, published almost under the nose of Tammany Hall, to that of The Sentinel, published a thousand miles away. There are none so blind as those who have eyes but refuse to see. We hazard the statement that the editor of the Christian Herald moves in a very narrow sphere and that practically all he knows about happenings in New York City he gets second-hand. Furthermore, if the Christian Herald is as careless about some of the things it publishes as some other church organs not a great way from Grenada, then its carelessness is akin to recklessness.

It would be just about as reasonable to condemn the God-fearing men and women of the Baptist church because the treasurer of the mission funds of that church is found to have stolen one million dollars as to lay the sins of Tweed and sixty years ago on Tammany Hall. Surely the missing Baptist treasurer was not a Tammanyite?

We note that our Brother is adroit enough to always bring in the Presbyterian church in connection with the Methodist and Baptist churches in opposing Al Smith. We repeat we do not recall having seen or read anything in the press about the political ravings of any Presbyterian minister; most assuredly we have seen nothing from an Episcopal clergyman that would even approach the suggestion of pulpit political deliverances on this campaign and, we most respectfully submit, the judgment of our good Brother to the contrary notwithstanding, that action of the three churches he names does "not represent the citizenship of America".

The churches primarily have to do with things spiritual; it is our judgment that Christ did not intend that they be "worldly wise". The churches might be right or they might be wrong about any political or economic matter. Those who "prepare" and get over resolutions in churches are just men; and we know of no heavenly injunction that makes their voices about governmental matters of any compelling power. And we know some Methodist ministers that are indeed clever in pulling political wires at conferences and we are a bit loath to believe that they wholly outdistance some of the Baptist clergy in this respect.

Were we to go into what our Brother suggests about "conscience" and witchcraft during the early days of this country, we would open the way for a technical definition of what conscience is and how it gets to be what it is, nevertheless it is well known that even today some violent church disturbances are started over what men "believe". By way of parenthesis we will say that it would be a fatal day for this great Republic for any church to become arbiter or dictator of what the citizen or the government should be. We have no fears, however, so long as men and women refuse to allow anybody else to do their thinking for them.

Our good friend and Brother mentions the 18th Amendment, which, he says, "took the friends of temperance, the friends of the home and the friends of the church generations" to write into the organic law of the land. The trouble with our Brother again is that he refuses to believe that anybody who does not see the situation as set forth in the resolutions which he refers to is "a friend of temperance or of the home or of the churches". The Sentinel's record shows that it has played some little part in demonstrating that it believed and does now in all these things. It has stood, and does today, for temperance and for all that is pure in the home and in government.

Without any reservation whatever, this paper asserts that it would take no position about any national or state matter which it believed would reestablish the saloon influence or that would in the remotest increase the damnable influence of the whiskey traffic.

No man who is even a casual observer and who is willing to see things as they really are and not as maybe what they ought to be, can deny that there is lots of the meanest whiskey ever made being made and sold today. The thing that concerns The Sentinel is what is best to do. We are confronted with a condition; we stand on the brink of a dark and deep chasm; our theory is that we should bridge the chasm. And right here we will state to our good and sincere-minded Brother if he will get 80 per cent of the laymen of the Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian and Episcopal churches to that spiritual attitude where they will not take a drink of whiskey, then the temperance question will be solved and there will be little to quibble about the 18th Amendment. But so long as there are so many in the churches who talk "dry" and drink "wet", many of whom honestly believe that when the government says they shall not buy this or that, it violates the spirit of the Federal Constitution, we shall have a problem in the prohibition laws. Our idea is for the real temperance people to write the modifications.

Yes, this paper denies that "Al Smith is a drinking man" if our Brother says that he gets drunk. Will our Brother affirm that Smith's leading opponent is a teetotaler? If we were to suffer ourselves to get at cross purposes with every man who takes a drink, then we would deprive ourselves of the association and friendship of some of the leading citizens and most philanthropic minded men of Mississippi. Mind you, we are not endorsing their drinking but are just stating facts, and we long ago realized that we have no monopoly on the knowledge of what is right or of what is wrong.

If our Brother is basing his action in this campaign wholly on the 18th Amendment, we are wondering why he does not stand with the party which makes prohibition the cornerstone of its platform. We are wondering why our good Brother does not vote for the prohibition candidate for the presidency.

With the hope of still further elaborating the idea that we have already suggested, we recall having heard the lamented Gov. Whitfield say of some of the conferences of the Governors of the different states which he had attended, that nearly every one of them drank of whiskey prepared as part of their entertainment, and that out of 45 Governors at one conference, only he and two other Governors refused the liquor. To our way of thinking the action of these Governors reflected most shamefully on them, but what we think does not alter conditions. Our idea is to do the best with a bad situation.

In conclusion we would prefer to take the opinion of Pat Harrison and Joe Robinson and Joseph Daniels and Carter Glass and Malcolm Patterson and hundreds of other leaders, all members of one or another of the Protestant churches and in good standing, to the statement of the Christian Herald. We believe that the action of the party, representing 48 different states, far more representative of the will of the people than the resolutions Brother Lee refers to without consulting the rank and file.

We believe both Hoover and Smith to be great men and that either one of them will give the country the best service of which he is capable. Mr. Hoover indirectly registered a protest himself in his acceptance speech against the churches as such becoming embroiled in political campaigns when he mentioned his own religion.

Political blunders are much easier remedied than blunders which concern those institutions that have to do with furthering the spiritual life of the people of this great land. If we honor God as we should, He will overrule our political mistakes to the betterment of the Nation.

To Brother Lee and others who are basing what they are saying derogatory to Al Smith on hearsay testimony, testimony that would be quickly kicked out of any court of law, we commend a consideration of the following lines: "Believe not each accusing tongue. As most credulous persons do. But still believe that story wrong Which ought not to be true."

you". And they did help us. It was the great Horace Greeley, a New Yorker, who took up the side of the south and made the race for the presidency in 1872 as a Democrat.

New York voted the Democratic ticket just three years after the war closed, or at the first presidential election. It was New York that gave us Samuel J. Tilden from whom the Republicans stole the presidency in 1876. It was New York that gave us Grover Cleveland. Shall we act ingrates? Shall we smite the hand that helped the south in the hour of need?

I ask that our people who are playing the part of the proverbial mule, to wake up. I am speaking out of the experience of 89 years. I have lived through turmoil and political strife, which I pray may never come to my children or my grandchildren. I was born only a few miles from Grenada. I have lived in this section all these years. I know it almost from every angle. There is more than the prohibition issue in this campaign. And it does seem to me that Smith has said all that the most careful minded prohibitionist could want in regard to that issue. He has said that he will implicitly keep faith with the people and that he will do all that any president can do to enforce the prohibition amendment. It is most certainly not being enforced; neither the present or the preceding Republican administration enforced the amendment. Smith is candid and honest enough to say that he thinks there ought to be some amendment of the prohibition law, but should there be an amendment, he insists that whatever intoxicants are sold be sold by the state or the federal government. Is that not at least fair?

People talk about Tammany Hall that I am of the opinion know nothing of Tammany Hall. They say they will bolt the ticket and seem to forget all about Vane in Pennsylvania spending one million dollars to be elected United States senator. They holler "Catholic, liquor and money" in the face of another Republican senator spending $800,000 to win the election in Illinois—both Vane and Smith were kicked out of the senate door, they were not allowed to even come in and sit down.

Some good people say they won't vote for Smith because of something a member of Tammany Hall did 60 years ago, overlooking the stealing and corruption under Harding's administration when three cabinet officers were booted out by the senate. This Tammany man may have profited to the tune of $100,000, sixty years ago, but Fall, and Daugherty, members of Harding's cabinet, got a million or two, and that only about six years ago. Denby was kicked out of Harding's cabinet because he seemed to be a sort of blindfolded partner in some of the crookedness. Forbes was caught stealing to the tune of four million dollars from World War veterans, and this only about six years ago. Let's apply the same yard stick to both. A Republican governor of Indiana was sent to the penitentiary about five years ago for fraud. A Republican congressman was sent to the penitentiary from Kentucky only about four years ago. It looks to the open minded that too many Republicans are tarred with the stick of loot and graft.

Al Smith has been four times elected Governor of New York state. Doesn't any one know that if there was any crookedness or graft about him during all that time, the Republicans would have found it and would have emblazoned it to the world?

But to Mississippi: If the spirits of Lamar, Walthall, Lowry and Barksdale could be called back from the spirit world to speak to Mississippians, don't we who know them know that they would tell Mississippians who are talking of voting the Republican ticket, or who are fighting Smith, that they are ashamed of them, and that bolters are bringing shame to their fathers. The spirits of these men would mount every platform in Mississippi and reason with our halting friends. They would point to the dark cloud of negro ballots and federal bayonets; they would tell of the nights when maybe the father or grandfather of some of these bolters were called from their beds and marched away by federal soldiers, some of them never to return. The negroes are here with the votes. I am told that fully 75,000 of them can meet the test required by our constitution. If the whites divide and these negroes vote, what, I pray will the harvest be?

There are thousands of negroes who have been caught heretofore by this sort of a net and who know that in the end their best welfare lies with those who are supporting the nominee of the regular Democratic National convention. Smith won the nomination fairly according to all the rules of the game. If our anti-Catholic and "dry" friends had got what they wanted at the convention, they would have insisted that the great majority of Democrats who are now loyal to Smith, support their man and their platform, and they would have done it. No bolting by the crowd backing Smith.

"Oh", they say, "the women will defeat Smith". I do not believe it. A woman abhors shame and hypocrisy far more than a man. The women all over the land know that the Republicans have been shamming about enforcing prohibition. You may tell me until you are black in the face that any number of southern women will bolt the Democratic ticket, but I'll never believe it. Southern women have memories; they know the scenes of the tragedy of reconstruction. They have heard their parents tell of carpetbag rule; they know how every sentiment of the southerner was overridden and how it was sought to punish their parents in ways that were dark and by means that were devious—all done, too, mind you, at the instance of Republican leaders. No, these good women will never turn their backs upon the memories of their parents by bolting the Democratic ticket.

I believe this is the first time I ever attempted to say anything for the public press. I have said more than I intended when I began. But when I get to thinking about the record of the Republican party in the history of the south and its infamy—that record is inexhaustible I would not speak now, for I have but a few more years to abide here, did I not feel that my countrymen, many of them at least, need a warning voice. I speak out of years of turmoil, strife and tragedy. I shall perhaps never say another word to the public, but if this is my last, I feel that I have at least tried to say something I believe is true in all things and that I serve my children and grandchildren and those of my neighbors and friends well. If anything have said makes our state or our country better, I shall more than compensated.

A SUCCESSFUL SIX NOW WINNING EVEN GREATER SUCCESS

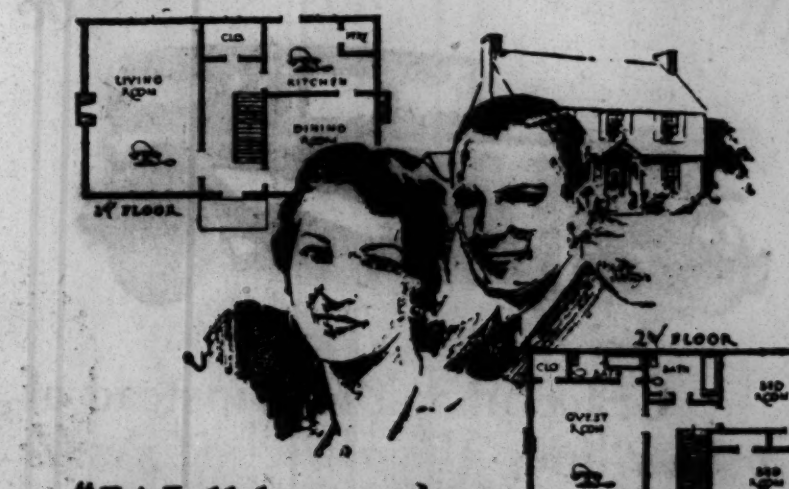

SPECTACULAR SUCCESS
is proving it Chief of the Sixes

In the tremendous success which Pontiac Six is enjoying is ample reason for designating this great General Motors car "Chief of the Sixes."

Never has any new car risen so rapidly in the estimation of motor car buyers for during the first six months of 1928, over 136,000 Pontiacs were sold—the largest volume ever achieved by any car during the first half of its third year in production! This great public acceptance tells more of what Pontiac offers at $745 than even the most complete listing of such features as Fisher body, 186 cu. in. engine, the G-M-R cylinder head, cross-flow radiator, foot-controlled headlights, coincidental lock, etc., etc.! Come in for a ride today and learn why its sales sweep ever upward.

2-Door Sedan, $745; Coupe, $745; Sport Roadster, $745; Phaeton, $775; Cabriolet, $795; 4-Door Sedan, $825; Sport Landau Sedan, $875. Oakland A-B-American Six, $1145 to $1265. All prices at factory. Check Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices—they include lowest handling charges. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

"We'll have plenty of telephones in the new home"

"ONE thing is certain—this business of running a marathon from one part of the house to another, every time the telephone rings is out of date. I've arranged with the telephone company to install a telephone in the living room, one in the kitchen, and another in our bedroom. Then, too, there will be outlets in the bath room, guest room, and dining room, so we can plug-in a portable telephone. How's that for getting convenience down to a science?"

"It's a perfectly great idea. But it sounds fearfully expensive."

"But it's not, you see. The added cost amounts to only a few cents a day—a small price to pay for the utmost in convenience."

Before you buy or build a home confer with us regarding adequate telephone facilities. Full information will be gladly furnished by the Business Office, or any telephone employee.

The Senior Epworth League of the Methodist Church enjoyed a most unique entertainment last Friday night. The members of the league met at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Holder and were divided into two groups, one headed by Mr. Holder and the other by Mrs. Grady Triplett, to go on a treasure hunt, on foot. There were about a dozen on each team and after a long search Mr. Holder's group was successful in locating the treasure at Bledsoe's. It proved to be a container filled with enough half-pints of delicious ice cream to serve the entire crowd bountifully. A bonfire was built by the losing team and marshmallows were roasted and enjoyed with delightful sandwiches and the ice cream. Various games were played until a late hour when the crowd returned home happy but foot-sore, after a most delightful evening.

CHIPS OF LIFE

(By T. E. Winborn, Jr., Elliott)
The Mighty Mississippi—
That Old Gang of Mine—
The Ship That Never Comes In—

Yesterday night I found myself standing on the bank of perhaps the greatest river of them all, the mighty Mississippi, and gazing upon its sluggish bosom as it wound its way toward the blue waters of the Gulf of Mexico. In the distance across the father of waters I could see the brilliant lights that marked the little city of Helena, Arkansas, while nearer I could just make out the night lamps of the little ferry which plied its way back and forth during the day but now was tied up for the night. While I was standing there in the darkness with one foot on the fender of my car and smoking my pipe and ruminating over some of the stories that were connected with the Mississippi River of the past when the palatial steamers that plied their way on her bosom were making it a spot for romance and enjoyment, an old man slowly walked up from a shanty down under the levee and pointing out over the river which we could just make out in the darkness said "She's wonderful, ain't she, stranger. I've been following her up and down for forty years and I guess I'll follow her 'til I die, but she'll always be wonderful to me, why man—" And the old fellow stopped, carried away by his enthusiasm and I, too, felt for the first time the pull of the river, that magnetic force that has tied so many men for life to its romantic side. And we both gazed and smoked and felt as though we had been friends for years, at least I did, and I believe he did, too, because at last he took his eyes from the river and seating himself on the fender, said "Would you like to hear some true stories of the old river days when the Robert E. Lee and the Natchez and all the other old timers plied their way along here?" Of course I answered in the affirmative and he began to tell me tales of the past from his memory, tales in which he was interested either as a spectator or as a listener to other older river men, and I wish that I had the space to put down here some of the stories that that old man unrolled to me, or that my readers could have been standing within earshot and heard what he said. I am sure that they would have been quite as interested as I was and that the romance of the old river days would have entered their souls as it did mine and that the river would have had a fascination for them as it did for me, after hearing the old fellow talk. Well, about eleven o'clock I bade the old man good night and turning the car around headed for Tunica, where I was staying for the night and, as I drove into the night with the old Mississippi behind me and the evening star out in front, somehow I felt a longing for the old river days as they used to be, and almost wished that I had lived in those times and had been mixed up in the river life on the Mississippi in those days. It is strange how the night affects you and how rivers and other neverchanging forces of nature give you a new hold on life. But to gaze at the stars, as they hang there in the sky like precious diamonds in a turquoise setting, and to look out on the mighty river, and realize that the stars have been there thousands of years before you were born and probably will be there thousands of years after you are gone, looking down on all that takes place on this old earth, and that the river will flow on with its burdens despite what may happen here, that, to me, helps me to take that same stubborn attitude, to go on despite what may happen to the end, that I may set for myself, so that when it comes my time to make my last little bow on the stage of life, it may be said of me that at least he was fixed in his way as the stars are fixed, that at least he moved with the same sureness of purpose as the great Mississippi moves toward the blue waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

In the year 1926 I was graduated from Grenada High School and left a bunch of fellows that to me are the finest in the world. They composed a gang of six, all in the same class, all being graduated at the same time, and all for a period of about two years sharing the same joys and sorrows at school. Today all of them, about, are scattered, and I have my doubts about them ever getting together again. We weren't model students at school, perhaps we caused more trouble than any other six that ever attended in the same class, and in a class where there were only 13 boys that perhaps was a record. Not a record to be proud of, you will say, and I suppose you are right, but despite our worrying the teachers, I defy anyone to point out any member of the class that any of the teachers would do more for than they would for one of the six, the Dirty Six, we called it, and if I had it to do over again, I can't see that I would change things very much, because there is something about getting in trouble with fellows that forever links them in your heartstrings, and there is something about that school life as I lived it that will always stick in my memory, and I believe will always stick in all the gang's memory. I remember hearing of a visit that an old English teacher of ours made to the high school after we had left, and when she was called upon to make a speech, she arose and, looking around, said "There are some faces that I miss here, I know just who are gone", and then what was sweet to me, she named several members of the gang, because somehow they stuck in her memory and I shall always remember her for that and for the way in which she put up with our actions when we were under her. And others of our teachers, I remember them too, because we, of the gang, came to know them well, if we did worry them in school hours. When we are young we do not realize our happiness until it is gone beyond our grasp and then we only have our memory to bring back to us other days, because after we get older we discover that there is far more of the tragic in life and far more of the monotonous than there is of happiness and romance, and then it is that how we have spent our youth largely determines the course of our maturer years. I am neither condemning nor condoning, but I do know that had I conducted myself in school altogether prim and proper as I suppose I should, I would have been like some other members of our class, isolated from the gang, and would have nothing to smile over or remember with feeling as I think over my "golden school days" for they are golden to me. O, I can see them all, now, A. J., with his curly hair and peculiar ways, John L., and Henry, the happiest go-luckiest of us all. And Rice with that laugh of his and then old Ferrell, the steadiest, and myself, perhaps the biggest fool. All of them forever linked in my memory with the choicest piece of my life, the sweetest and I think the most lovable five I ever ran across. None of them will see this, I hardly think, nor is it possible for me to say just how I feel toward them. They were like salt to me. I didn't realize how much I liked them until I had to do without them. This winter I shall be in New Orleans, another of the six in Nashville, another in North Carolina, another at Ole Miss and the other two at A. & M. and Mississippi College. All of us will be separated, but never will any of them stay out of my memory, because there are too many lived things that hold them close to my heart; and I hold you the rarest of all my souvenirs of yesterday, Old Gang of Mine.

I remember hearing sung on the stage of one of the theaters in San Francisco, some years ago, a song that has stuck in my memory. It was not a new song but it brought home to me the tragedy of most people's lives. It was entitled "The Ship That Never Comes In". I haven't lived very long as years go, am still this side of twenty, but in that time I have heard many people speak of just what they were going to do when their ships came in, young people, middle-aged and the aged. There is hardly anybody so dead as not to have some dream for the future, there is hardly anybody but who intends building a fine home, or buying a car or making a trip to Europe some time, in the tomorrows, when their ship comes in. It is a great thing, this ship business, it keeps people working so that they may be ready when she does arrive, and some do arrive coming in under under full sail loaded down with a cargo of happiness and success. And the people can say, my ship has come in, but mayhap she was a small ship, and they still look for another, and so into the forever. And to this small minority whose ship does come, there is the large majority whose ship never arrives and whose hopes are sunk beneath disappointments and despair. There is nothing quite so pathetic as some old person still believing that his ship will come in, still trusting that fame and fortune will come his way when he reasonably knows that it is too late to hope. But let him hope, for therein, after all is happiness, and mayhap some stroke of fortune will make his ship come in loaded down with a great cargo. There are thousands, all ages, both sexes, who are looking for the ship that will never come in, but those thousands make up the optimists of the world and optimists are rather agreeable persons to get along with, so it is good, this idea.—And when the last hour has struck, it will be the people that think this way that will die happy, even if they cross the bar and go into that vast forever knowing that their ship has never come in. There is hardly anyone that gets just what they desire on this old earth. It was not intended to be paradise, but those that whirl along, content, knowing that their ship will come in some day, I think will come nearer finding paradise than those who kick about the way the world is run. Happiness, anyway, is the most elusive quality in the world, and oftentimes those who think that certain things would make them happy if they would but happen, find that when they do come, they are not to be found but is always in the future. We can only get happiness by being happy, by making the most of what we find when we were old enough to realize our heredity and environment. If you are not happy as you are, then you will never be happy by some strange streak of fate. There is only one way, that is to adjust yourself. That is not preaching, but common-sense. The richest are not the happiest, nor the ones who have acquired fame. Because happiness is not a state of material things but rather a state of mind.

If you can be happy, then there is no great disappointment in knowing that your ship will never come in.

"Many a girl and boy that start out by 'just being friends,'" says Beatrice Fairfax, "go straight to Hades." Those plutonic friendships.

In 1907, when the Oakland Motor Car Company was organized, Pontiac, Mich., home of the company, was a sleepy village on an old Indian trail with about 12,000 residents. The population has increased five-fold since then, and today strictly automotive products make up 97 per cent of the annual output of the town.

UPSET

With Stomach Spells

"I have taken Black-Draught ever since I was a child, and can recommend it as a splendid medicine for family use," says Mrs. Cora Maberry, of Sagesyah, Okla. "My mother used it, in bringing up her family, and after I had a home of my own, I continued to use it, as I thought it was good to give the children. "My children did not mind taking Black-Draught, and so when they got upset with stomach spells, or were constipated, I gave them Black-Draught tea."

"They are all grown now and have homes of their own, but I still keep Black-Draught in the house and use it myself when I wake up in the morning feeling dull and 'head-achey', and have a bad taste in my mouth."

PAUL WRITES TO HIS FRIENDS IN CORINTH

LESSON TEXT—I. Cor. 1:10-13:
3:1-11, 31-33.

GOLDEN TEXT—Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Writes a Letter to His Friends.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Writes a Good Letter to His Friends.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul Urges Team Work.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul Pleads for Christian Unity.

Concerning Contentment in the Church (1:10-13).

1. Exhortation (v. 10). "That ye all speak the same thing."

In view of the fact that he brought them in the name of Jesus Christ, the one thing which he desired them to speak was the Lord's name. The name of the Lord stands for all that the Lord is and does. "That there be no divisions among you," that is, no factions, no alienation of affection. "That ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment."

2. The reason for this exhortation (v. 11).

Word had been brought to Paul by members of the household of Chloe that wrangling was going on among the members of the Corinthian church. He assured them that he had sufficient evidence of the strife which was going on among them.

3. The nature of the contentions (v. 12).

Their disputes were about their teachers. Their interests were centered in their favorite ministers. Some were for Paul, perhaps attracted by his logic; some were for Apollos, doubtless moved by his stirring eloquence; others were for Peter. Doubtless these were Jewish converts who looked to Peter as their authority. There were still others who had their cry "back to Christ," repudiating all human teachers.

4. The grounds of allegiance to Christ (v. 13).

(1) He is Head of the whole church.

The unifying power of the body is the head. He raised the question, "Is Christ divided?" The mere raising of the question gave the answer.

(2) Redemption accomplished.

By his atoning death He has supreme Lordship over all.

(3) Allegiance to Christ acknowledged in baptism. By one Spirit we are all baptized into one body (1 Cor. 12:13).

11. Concerning Christian Ministers (3:1-4:5).

Since the dissensions in the church gathered around the ministers, Paul proceeded to cure the evil by exhibiting the ministerial office in its true light. To conceive of ministers as party leaders or teachers of philosophy tends to divisions. Divisions in the church occur when men are occupied with the messenger rather than with the message. The cure in such cases is to get a right conception and proper estimate of human teachers. Ministers really are:

1. Servants of God (vv. 5, 6).

They are instruments in His hands for the execution of His will. They are men sent to deliver a message, to do a definite work.

2. Ministers are equal in rank (vv. 8, 9).

They are called by the same spirit to teach the same truth, and therefore stand in the same relationship. Official hierarchy in the church has no foundation in the Scriptures.

3. Every minister must give an account to God for his work (vv. 10-12).

If he lay other foundation than Christ he is not a Christian minister at all. If he build sound doctrine on the foundation he will receive a reward. If he build false doctrine on a true foundation he will suffer loss and receive punishment. Sorrow and anguish will be to him who builds good material upon a wrong foundation, and likewise to him who builds poor material upon a right foundation. Human wisdom has no place in the solemn work of building the church of God.

4. Ministers are the property of the church (vv. 22, 23).

Frequently the assumption is that the church is owned by the ministers. Ministers should be followed only as far as they follow Christ.

5. Ministers are God's stewards (4:1-5).

Their business is to dispense His truth. They do not originate the message. God demands fidelity on their part and He will enter into judgment with them as to their faithfulness.

BUTLER ATTACK IS COSTLY TO G. O. P.

Educator's Repudiation of Hoover Swings Many Votes to Smith.

The unqualified repudiation of Herbert Hoover by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, and President of the Carnegie Endowment Foundation for International Peace, has proved, political observers say, one of the most staggering blows suffered in the present campaign by the Republican forces.

Although many prominent Republicans have renounced allegiance to their party since Hoover's nomination, none, it is conceded, has influenced so many votes.

A highly esteemed leader in Republican party affairs since 1887, Dr. Butler has attended every Republican national convention for 40 years. In 1912, following the death of Vice President Sherman, who had been renominated, Dr. Butler became the Republican candidate for Vice President. He was one of his party's most prominent candidates for the nomination for President in 1924.

The reaction to his ringing disavowal of the principles enunciated by Hoover in his acceptance speech, was immediate and nationwide. His bold and unequivocal declaration that he could not support a candidate who admitted himself to be in favor of the "continuance of the present reign of lawlessness, debauchery and Government-made crime," brought thousands of letters of congratulation from other dissatisfied Republicans.

In a scathing letter, addressed to the editor of the New York Times, Dr. Butler declared he wished to dissociate himself "quickly, publicly and completely on positions on two of the three most important questions now before the American people that were taken by Mr. Hoover in his speech of acceptance."

Dr. Butler, who has long been in demand by learned bodies as a speaker on questions relating to international relations and the promotion of world peace, ridiculed Hoover for his "wholly false argument" that the squandering of enormous sums on naval armament would cooperate in the maintenance of peace.

"The contrary is now the well-demonstrated fact," asserted the educator. "Mr. Hoover dismisses with a few perfunctory words the truly remarkable treaty just now to be signed by ourselves and all the great powers of the earth pledging renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy." He added that Hoover's position was mere "swagger."

He criticized Hoover for "accepting the formula of that paid band of agitators, lobbyists and persecutors which calls itself the Anti-Saloon League," and asserted that it is "quite obvious that Mr. Hoover has no conception of the real problem by which the country is faced."

"That problem," averred Dr. Butler, "has not to do with liquor, not with social experiments, good, bad or indifferent, but with the structure and functions of the Government of the United States."

Accusing the Republican candidate of "hypocrisy" and "contradiction" which "would be comic were it not so unspeakably tragic," the educator declared: "No one can be in favor of the principles upon which our Government rests, or of the Constitution itself, and at the same time in favor of the Eighteenth Amendment, because the two are absolutely contradictory."

"Literally millions of Republicans throughout the country," Dr. Butler asserted, are "in full agreement" with him.

HOOVER FARM STATEMENT CALLED 'CLEVER DELUSION'

"A very pretty Christmas tree for the American farmer, covered with glisteninginsel and little Christmas bells, but without presents—in other words, a clever delusion."

That is how Herbert Hoover's statement on agriculture is described by William Hirth, of Columbia, Mo., publisher of the Missouri Farmer, and chairman of the Corn Belt Committee. Mr. Hirth adds:

"Mr. Hoover's message to Agriculture constitutes a lot of cleverly put together bunk that will not fool the thinking farmers of this country. When he admits that after eight years of uninterrupted power the Republican party has failed to meet what he now says is the 'most urgent economic problem of our Nation' he is caught in his own bear trap—how can he confess this indictment against his party in one breath, and then have the nerve to ask the farmer for his vote in the next?"

BALTIMORE, Md.—Richard F. F. Cleveland, son of President Cleveland, is actively engaged in the campaign to elect Governor Smith President. He has been selected as a member of the committee in charge of campaign speakers in Maryland.

August Sales 21,000 Cars

—the greatest month in Nash History

Higher and higher goes the nationwide demand for the new Nash "400". Sales returns for August are in and, by thousands of cars, it was the biggest month in the entire 12 years of Nash history.

The three great Nash factories are now producing over 1000 cars a day, to supply the avalanche of orders for this new and finer motor car.

The country has gone Nash! In the eight short weeks since its introduction, approximately 55,000 Nash 400's have been delivered—as many Nash cars as in six full months of 1927!

There's only one conclusion to be drawn from these facts and figures—this is the car of the year!

This is the car with the new Twin-Ignition motor—more power, more speed, less gasoline. The easiest steering, easiest riding car the motor car industry ever has produced. And the car with exquisite new Salon Bodies of surpassing beauty.

Farewell for College Student.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Nichols and Mrs. Myrtle Thomas entertained most delightfully at rook at the latter's home in Tie Plant last Thursday night. There were three tables and all had a most enjoyable time. A salad course was served by little Misses Frances Thomas and Ethel George Nichols.

The party was given in honor of Mr. Charles Perry by way of farewell as he left Friday morning for A. & M. to enter college. The young ladies present were Misses Lena Mae Nichols, Louise Boushe, Dorothy Provine, Odean Johnson, Mary Sue Davies, Margaret Hardy, and Ruby Faye McKee. The gentlemen were Messrs. Charles Perry, Ray Horton, Barclay Lewis, James Nichols, Earl Thomas, Willoughby Jordan and Dixon Hardy.

Mr. Isaac Overton Pearson, of Grenada, Mississippi, announces the engagement and approaching marriage of his daughter, Edith Irene, to Mr. Robert Joseph Turner, junior, of Kosciusko, Mississippi, the wedding to take place on Thursday, October 18th, 1928.

Dr. H. T. Rogers left the latter part of last week for a business trip to the Rio Grande Valley of Texas. He has only recently disposed of the major part of his business interests in Grenada and it was with the view of locating there that he went to Texas. Those who have got to know Dr. Rogers during his residence in Grenada have found that he is "all wool and a yard wide," that he is absolutely dependable in all things and that the loyalty to his friends which characterizes him can be found in few others. The Sentinel joins with other friends of his in hoping that Dr. Rogers will remain in Grenada but should he decide to leave, the community's best wishes will follow him. Her host of friends are glad to know that Mrs. Rogers will be here for some time yet even should her husband's plans call for a removal to the Lone Star state.

—You'll be surprised how inexpensive these breakfast sets are. See them at Keeton's.

Mr. Horace Chamberlain, brother of Mrs. Wm. C. McLean, was called to Memphis before Judge McLean's death and came to Grenada to attend the funeral. Mr. Chamberlain is a prominent attorney of Little Rock and is a most pleasant and courteous gentleman.

Mr. J. H. Neely arrived last Friday night from Weslaco, Texas where he had been to assist in getting his wife and two children located for the winter. He made the trip from Weslaco, which is on the Mexican border, to Grenada in two days, exceptionally fast time for that distance. Mr. Neely will join his family in a few more weeks and will spend the winter with them.

—At Keeton's you'll find the latest in china for your breakfast nook. Three gorgeous patterns on sale Monday.

Miss Loree Atkinson, who has been a member of the Yazoo City school faculty for the past two years, left several days ago for Crystal Springs to take up her duties there as commercial teacher in the city schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Bonelli, of Vicksburg, arrived last Friday to spend a few days in Grenada with their mother, Mrs. Anna Turnage, and their sister, Mrs. Lucille Hornor, on Bell Street. They came from Athens, Ala. where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Claud J. Hayden last week. Mrs. Hayden and Mrs. Bonelli are sisters.

Mr. Wilmer Thomas, of Vicksburg, was in Grenada the early part of the week a guest at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Thomas.

Mrs. R. Dailey, at Torrance, is enjoying a visit from her sister, Mrs. Mary E. Hagler, of Tuscaloosa, Ala. Mrs. Hagler's son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Marchburn, also of Tuscaloosa, left Tuesday morning to visit in Memphis before returning home. All of them have just returned from a delightful trip abroad.

Mr. John S. Ladd's many friends will be glad to know that he is at home again and is much improved after a stay of six weeks in a Memphis hospital. He returned to Grenada last Saturday and Mrs. Ladd, who was with him while he was in the hospital, came with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Spain and two children, Harold and Sybil, of Booneville, spent from Wednesday until Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Horace Spain on Snider Street.

The Sentinel has been requested to announce that the Catholics of Grenada will hold mass at 7:30 next Sunday in the local chapel.

Hon. W. C. Trotter and wife spent two or three days the early part of the week in Grenada. Mrs. Trotter is the only daughter of the late Judge McLean, and was at the bedside of her father when he died in Memphis.

Messrs. Earl and Cole Pittman, of the southeastern portion of Grenada County, have registered at A. & M. College for the 1928-29 session, the former to study engineering and the latter science.

complicated, for in truth it has just begun. We need, and when we say "we," we have in mind farmers, merchants and all other classes. If we stop where we are, we cannot win the race. Regardless of how well the race starts off, if one stops at the first quarter he is never a winner. We should all profit by what has been done, and we should strive to keep on in an enlarged and in a more intelligent way. The cow and milk and butter is a sure winner for this territory. The association is determined to continue its work and it begs the thoughtful consideration of all farmers and the help of one and all to make Grenada County people financially independent and to bring all of us into possession of that which Nature designed for the citizenship of this great section to realize, and that is good homes, good schools, suitable houses in which to worship God, an abundance to eat, money in the banks and a happiness and a contentment that cannot be had by the thinking man who is eking out a mere living. Let's pull together, let's keep on pulling together. The feed crops of this section are abundant. Providence is doing its part towards assisting our farmers in shifting from all cotton to other things.

COLLEGE OPENS TUESDAY

Students of Grenada College are expected to arrive on next Tuesday, Sept. 18th. The morning will be devoted to the matriculation of day students, who are requested to report from 8:30 a. m. to noon. In the afternoon and during the day Wednesday, boarding students will enter and make their schedules for the year. Public opening exercises will be held on the morning of the 20th at ten o'clock.

Members of the faculty are already arriving and it is expected that all will be in place on the opening day. Several thousand dollars have been spent on the buildings during the summer and the campus was never in more attractive condition than at present.

Following the unanimous vote of the several district conferences interested, the Bond Committee met last week and prepared their report to the North Mississippi Conference, recommending a bond issue of $300,000 for the additional endowment of Grenada College. It is understood that the bonds will be ready for sale by the middle of November and a number of requests have already been filed for the purchase of a large part of the issue.

The Board of Education of the M. E. Church, South, at its recent meeting in Nashville, Tenn., authorized an annual appropriation for the support of the chair of Bible in Grenada College. This is the first time the institution has received help from this source and president J. R. Countiss is very much gratified at the recognition accorded by the General Board of the church. A new day is assured for Grenada College and the faculty, students and patrons are delighted over the prospect of a record-making year for this excellent institution.

BAPTISTS AT SCHLATER HAVE GREAT REVIVAL

The Baptist revival in the town of Schlatter closed last Thursday and Dr. W. E. Farr, the pastor of the First Baptist Church of Grenada, who conducted the meeting, reached home Friday.

It is said that the crowds were the largest that ever attended a revival in the town. Thirty additions were made to the Baptist church alone. One fine young man

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas, in the providence of God Mr. A. W. Stokes, a good member of our Business Men's Class and a long time member of our church, has been transferred to the Heavenly Home, and

Whereas, in his going our class and our church has sustained a great and irreparable loss. Therefore—

Be it resolved by the Business Men's Bible Class, that we hereby express our genuine sorrow in his being taken from us, in the loss of his companionship.

That we extend to his bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy and brotherly assurance of our continued interest and the proffer of our help to any member of his family at any time we may have an opportunity. We assure you of our prayers for your comfort and peace.

May the Dear Heavenly Father keep you close until the great reunion time shall come.
